Summary project

In line with the Cittaslow philosophy, the Municipality of Seferihisar has launched the "Good Life Campus" project. This initiative brings together the Children's Municipality and the Aging Center to create a sustainable living space where different generations can spend time together, learn from one another, and live in harmony with nature.

Goal project

The aim of the project is to offer children opportunities for participatory democracy and active learning, while supporting active aging for older adults through social, cultural, and physical activities that enhance their quality of life. It also promotes intergenerational interaction and knowledge sharing.

Result project

The project aims to create a sustainable society by encouraging interaction between different age groups, enabling them to learn from one another and embrace a lifestyle in harmony with nature. While providing children with a free and open learning environment, it also values the experiences of older adults.
